Drawing from years of experience, the Bank of England is the quintessential example of craftsmanship standing the test of time. Produced by Krug for over 100 years, the Bank of England chair is used today in libraries, restaurants, judicial courts and other settings where the warmth and timelessness of the design make a lasting impression. Made from solid European Beech, each chair is carefully crafted by hand, using Krug's unique steam bending process. Available in a variety of standard or custom finishes, Bank of England is also offered with a removable seat cushion or upholstered seat, and is amazingly comfortable in any version.
